Time: The Deciding Factor

Submitted by Eric Knoff on Sat, 12/22/2012 - 10:35

Mountain riding on snowmobiles has exploded in popularity over the past 15 years. Every winter more riders hit the backcountry in pursuit of steep faces and untracked powder. This type of riding increases the inherent risk of being caught in an avalanche. Over the past decade, 41 snowmobilers have died in avalanches in Montana - more than any other state in the nation.

The Deciding Factor.pdf

Publication MSA Date of Publication Tuesday 11/20/12