

From e-mail on 3/15/20: "At around 1230pm today, everything that was steeper than 35 degrees in star Creek simultaneously slid on east, north, south aspects. Soft slab 6-12" in thickness. Prior to that, it had been snowing S5 for three hours." Photo: B. Zavora

Advisory Region
Cooke City
Longitude
-109.89W

Latitude

45.12N

Avalanche Details: Natural new snow slab avalanches, Cooke

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Forecast for Mon Mar 16, 2020GNFAC Avalanche Forecast for Tue Mar 17, 2020

Cooke City, 2020-03-16